Sequoia Realty Services Adds Vitality to the Local Real Estate Market

Elliott Butler and Paul Lewis Join the Team as Leasing Representatives

REDWOOD CITY, CA. June 17, 2010 – Sequoia Realty Services, a full-service real estate company serving the Peninsula with an expansive portfolio of office, retail, industrial and residential properties; announced the addition of Elliott Butler and Paul Lewis as Leasing Representatives based out of their Redwood City headquarters.

“Elliott and Paul are an invaluable contribution to the team,” said Gina Henson, President of Sequoia Realty Services. “Together they bring a youthful and engaging spirit, which improves our ability to take on new challenges and priorities by leveraging a tech-savvy generation focused on community and broadening social interactions.”

Elliott Butler supports the Vice President, Jeff Badstubner, and Senior Sales Associate, Dan Skehan, on leasing contracts and tenant transactions. Elliott recently graduated from the University of San Francisco with a degree in Economics, and is currently pursuing his real estate license. Having grown up in the Woodside area, his established network of local experts will help inform and expand the company’s presence within the market. While in college, Elliott interned at W. L. Butler Construction, Inc. as a support team member and worked part-time as a property manager.

Paul Lewis works with Kevin Flaherty, a Sales and Leasing Agent at Sequoia Realty Services, on transaction and construction analysis, and is also involved in the coordination of future development projects. After graduating with a degree in History from USC, Paul started his career as an assistant at Marcus and Millichap Real Estate Investment Services in West Los Angeles, and later became a licensed real estate agent. Pursuing an interest in construction, he joined Marmol Radziner Prefab—a high-end LEED certified architect and manufacturer—as a project manager. Continuing on this path in Northern California, he worked as a project manager for a commercial general contractor in Redwood City before joining Sequoia Realty Services. As a native of Atherton, Paul’s prior experience in real estate, LEED background and construction contacts help strengthen the value he provides to the team.

“The increasing demand for our unique services enabled us to more than double our size within the last quarter alone,” said Jeff Badstubner, Vice President of Sequoia Realty Services. “With investors leery to spend and companies tightening their belts, our continued growth within the real estate sector sends an encouraging message to business leaders throughout the Peninsula.”

Elliott and Paul join a solid group of licensed real estate professionals and property managers. These two recent additions will inspire new and innovative ways of thinking internally to ultimately transform the way the company engages prospective tenants and existing clients.
